MAYOR ARULAMPALAM ACTIVATES SNOW PARKING BAN STARTING SATURDAY

HARTFORD, CONN. (January 23, 2026) – Tomorrow at 8PM, Mayor Arulampalam will activate a snow parking ban for the City of Hartford continuing into Monday, January 26. The end time for the parking ban will be determined after road conditions are assessed following the winter storm. Blue Light Lots will be open starting at noon on Saturday morning to provide ample opportunity for residents to get cars off the street.

“We’re expecting over ten inches of snow beginning Saturday evening and continuing into Sunday,” said Mayor Arulampalam. “Our Public Works team is standing by to keep our roads clear and safe during the snowstorm, but we need your help to make our snow cleaning operation as easy as possible. Please get your cars into your driveway, or to a Blue Light lot, City lot, or school lot, and for your own safety, please stay off the streets as much as you can.” Hartford’s trash and recycling pickup will proceed on its regular delayed schedule.

During a snow parking ban, all on-street parking is prohibited throughout the City of Hartford. Any vehicles not removed from City streets by the start of the parking ban will be ticketed and towed. Residents without access to off-street parking may move their vehicles to one of the authorized parking areas including Blue Light Lots, City Parks, and City Recreation and Senior Centers. Residents can also move their cars to Hartford Public Schools parking lots. See below for more information on these lots.

To notify the public a parking ban is in effect, sixteen major intersections will be illuminated with blue light beginning 4 hours before the parking ban (at 4PM) and they will remain illuminated throughout the duration of the parking ban.

Blue Light Lots are dedicated solely for use during snow parking bans. These designated Blue Light Lots will provide more parking options for residents who do not have access to off-street parking.

Residents can sign up to receive alerts by text, email, or phone from the City of Hartford by registering online here.
